COLUMBUS AND OTHER DISCOVERERS.

This is the day we set apart to keep the memory of the discoverer of America, a daring Italian navigator financed by an enterprising King of Spain, who is suspected to having taken a long shot in making this speculation in blind faith.

Yet it is a matter of history that this particular Italian was not the only discoverer of this country and that at least two other fellow countrymen were hard upon his heels. John Cabot and his son Sebastian, backed by King Henry VII of England, made these shores in 1497, and Amerigo Vesputi, another Italian in the employ of the Spanish King, sailed in an expedition which reached America in the same year.

Americo, or Amerigo as it is Latinized, was the "astronomer" of the expedition and wrote its history. In this capacity he succeeded, remarkable as it may seem, in writing his own name indelibly upon both Western Continents. North America and South America they remain to this day.

Columbus, however, was not entitled to the distinction of being the original discoverer in the light of modern historical research. It is now known that American shores were reached and explored by the hardy Norse sailors five hundred years before Columbus saw them. The North land sent out a number of expeditions which reached Iceland, Greenland, Newfoundland and other portions of the northern coast, but the Norsemen were a roving lot of adventurers and they made no progress with settlement and civilization.

Upon the whole, it may be said that the civilization of America is due to the insistence of Italian navigators that the Orient was readily accessible westward from the Occident, and foremost among these was Columbus. It is, therefore, proper to honor his memory by a public holiday.

IT WAS DIFFERENT IN THE THIRD.

Somebody evidently smarting under the sting of defeat is filling the columns of the local press with fish tales, some of them being of very ancient date. Here is an example:

In a certain ward in Connelville on the day of the last primary a ward worker lugged into the election house a foreman for whom a demand for a ballot. The judge went through the form of appearing a ridiculous "How old are you?" inquired the official.

"Two dollars and a half," was the ready response of the "foreman," and it was thus that a "foreman" noted about as to the average price being paid for votes in that particular precinct that day. And the judge accepted this man's ballot.

This incident actually happened in the First Ward several years ago, but the Judge of Election did not "accept the man's ballot." The man didn't get a ballot, nor a vote; on the contrary, he got bounced.

It was reported, however, that the man went up street to the polls next door to the New office, and had no trouble voting there.

But that was different.

Italians were the real discoverers of America, but they have been a long time taking possession of it.

this end, the last of which is the issue of letters-patent. These things are included in Sections 1 and 2. Then follows under the same head Section 3, providing:

"All the property and estates whatsoever, real and personal of the towns and boroughs which shall have thus become cities of the third class are hereby vested, etc."

This whole article is prospective, and Section 3 is therefore applicable only to cities obtaining letters-patent, after the passage of the Act.

Section 1 of the Act of 1911 amends Section 3 of Article I of the Act of 1898, only by changing the time when organization of city government shall be made.

The original section applying therefore plainly to cities which, after its passage, obtain letters-patent, the amendment applies only to cities to which letters-patent shall be issued after its passage, to-wit: June 21, 1911.

pollant confidently submit that this Act did not destroy that existing law. The only provision of the Act that can possibly be claimed to have this effect is Section 1. In this connection appellant submits:

a. That this section of the Act is prospective and not retrospective, as shown by the preceding argument.

b. That if it be considered as retrospective, it applies only to cities to which letters-patent were issued between the third Tuesday of February, 1910, the date of the last spring election, and the date of the passage of the Act, to-wit: June 21, 1911, thereby making for the purpose of electing officers two classes of cities of the third class, namely: Those created by letters-patent prior to the third Tuesday of February, 1910, and those subsequently to that date which are a purely arbitrary classification based on no substantial reason, which renders this part of the Act unconstitutional and void.

c. That the Act of June 21, 1911, should be construed so as to make it constitutional if possible, that is, it must be held not to destroy the right of election existing in cities at the date of its passage; that Section 3 applies and was intended to apply to all cities having the right and power to elect officers at the date of its passage, and that Section 1 applies and was intended to apply to cities created by letters-patent issued subsequently to its passage.

THE FOUNDRYMEN HAD A BIG YEAR.

A Scottdale Beneficial Association Makes Report of Their Activities.

MONEY FOR THE FIREMEN

C. A. Colborn Busy Among the Business Men and Checks and Letters of Appreciation Went Out Yesterday.

Other Notes of News or Mill Town.

Special to The Courier
SCOTSDALE, Oct. 12.—The Scottdale Foundrymen's Beneficial Association one of the several similar organizations maintained in the various towns here, has closed up another good year, according to figures submitted to the auditors by Treasurer W. W. Elmer. There was a balance of $142 from last year and collections amounted to the following: Dues, $171; fines from members, $2,704; and on death assessments, $142. This makes the total collections, $4,617, making a total on hand and collected, $4,759.

The payments of orders shows as follows: To sick and injured, $719; account of death of wife, $50; account of death of child, five died, $125; account of death of member, $50; death assessment for Mike Deluca, $612; for stationery, 50 cents; paid to Dr. W. H. Potter, special examination, $2; paid salaries, Secretary and Treasurer, $75; paid hall rent, $150. This makes a total paid out during the year, $1,605.

By dividend payable to 293 members, aggregating 3,154 shares at 4 cents, amounting to $12,617.71, making a total of $14,072.71 leaving a balance undivided of $3,686.28.

The following officers have been elected for the year: President, William Butler; Vice President, E. E. Elmer; Secretary, William Elmer; Treasurer, W. W. Elmer; Directors, J. E. Little, Charles F. Stahl, Samuel J. Shannon, and the following holding over: Harry Swartz, Stanton Elmer, John Elmer and Frank Bodner.

Appreciate Firemen.
When C. A. Colborn announced at the citizens' meeting Thursday evening that he thought that the volunteer firemen should have a token of appreciation for their efforts he immediately got busy. The result was the sending out of three checks each for $50 to the Conneltsville fire company, the Scottdale fire company, and the Youngstown fire company. The Scottdale boys will also get a substantial check. The one to Youngstown was addressed to J. M. Chamer, the one to Conneltsville to W. L. Deibel and the one to the Scottdale fire company to E. L. Carter. Mr. Colborn wrote such as follows: "As an expression of our appreciation for the services rendered us by our volunteer department on Tuesday morning, October 3, during the fire, which threatened the entire business portion of Scottdale, in behalf of our citizens, I take pleasure in handing you herewith draft for $50 payable to your treasurer."

Choral Society Meets.
The Scottdale Choral Society held an interesting meeting in the High School building on Tuesday evening, in preparation for their work during the coming season. The regular rehearsal will begin next Tuesday evening when a number of short works will be taken up, as it is expected that the society will give a concert about Thanksgiving time. During the latter part of the winter a more pretentious work will be given, probably a comic opera. The following officers have been elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, S. M. Teat; Vice President, J. H. Crum; Secretary, Carlisle Bell; Treasurer, Miss Honora King; Pianist, Miss Martha Todd; Musical Director, W. V. Whitman; Librarian, J. W. Geisburt; Music Committee, Miss Ethel Dick, Miss Lida Buckell, Elmer Morrow and Walter Housman; Board of Directors, Mrs. W. V. Whitman, Mrs. W. P. Stauffer and Simon Miller. As the active work will begin with the next rehearsal it is desired that there be a full attendance at the meeting on next Tuesday evening.

Cavanaugh-Phelan.
A pretty event was the marriage of Miss Agnes Phelan, daughter of Peter Phelan, of Spring street, Scottdale, to E. J. Cavanaugh, of Leontia, O., at the St. John the Baptist R. C. Church, yesterday morning at 7 o'clock mass. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Davitt. The attendants were Miss Katherine Phelan, bridemaid and William Phelan, best man, the two being brother and sister of the bride. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. The color scheme was pink and lavender. The bride was charming, wearing a gown of grey broadcloth and a black picture hat. Among the guests were Peter and Thomas Phelan and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Phelan of Youngstown, O. The Phelan family were former residents of Leontia. The bridegroom is at the head of a large department store at Leontia. The young couple left for a short trip to Pittsburg and Chicago after which they will make their home at Leontia.

P. M. Patton Dead.
Porter M. Patton, aged about 40 years, died Sunday at Long Beach, Cal., from complications of diabetes. Mr. Patton was a brother of Mrs. Theodore W. Lipps, of North Pittsburg street. Mr. Patton was well known here and at Pittsburg at which place he was employed in the Hays & Buhl store for 15 years and on account of his health he and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence K. Madigan of town, went to California some years ago. The remains will be buried at Long Beach.

Broken Three Times.
Ester, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Madigan, is an unfortunate lad with his arm, and furnished the first football accident of the season when caught in a game of football at the East Huntingdon Township High School grounds, Tuesday at noon in a scrimmage he had both bones of his left arm broken. The same arm was broken during a baseball game this year, and while the arm was healing up, the lad was thrown from a bicycle and broke his arm over again.

Honor Conferred Upon Morgan Girl

Miss Gerke is well fitted to the position as she has been an active worker in the church work in the Morgan valley. She just entered that institution this term and her rise among her associates has been rapid.

Resolution of Respect.
Dunbar Council No. 207, Jr. O. U. A.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst our late brother, John Moore, and whereas it is just and proper that recognition of his many virtues should be had, therefore be it

BURNING DAYLIGHT

BY JACK LONDON
AUTHOR OF "THE CALL OF THE WILD,"
"WHITE FANG," "MARTIN EDEN," ETC.
ILLUSTRATIONS BY DEARBORN MEYER

CHAPTER II.

It was Daylight's night. He was the center and the head of the revel, unquenchably joyous, a contagion of fun. In between dances he paid over to Kearns the twenty thousand in dust red transferred to him his Moonchild claim. Likewise he arranged the taking over of Billy Rawlin's mail contract, and made his preparations for the start. He dispatched a messenger to rout out Kama, his dog driver—a Tannan Indian, far-wandered from his tribal home in the service of the invading whites. Kama entered the Tivoli, tall, lean, muscular, and fur-clad, the pick of his barbaric race and barbaric still, umphken and umphken by the revelers that roared about him while Daylight gave his orders.

"Um," said Kama, tabbing his instructions on his fingers. "Get um letters from Rawlin's Load um on sled. Grub for Selkirk. You think um pleanty dog grub for Selkirk?"

"Plenty dog grub, Kama."

"Um, bring sled this place nine um clock. Bring um snowshoes. No bring um tent. Mobbo bring um fly? um little fly?"

"No fly," Daylight answered docilely. "No travel light—savvy? We carry plenty letters out, plenty letters back. You are strong man.
Plenty cold, plenty travel, all right."

"Sure all right," Kama muttered, with resignation. "Much cold, no care.
Um ready nine um clock."

He turned on his moonbeamed heel and walked out, imperturbable, sphinx-like, neither giving nor receiving greetings nor looking to right or left.
The Virgin led Daylight away into a corner.

At six the next morning, scorching with whisky, yet ever himself, he stood at the bar putting every marble bet my slinks by running the mail out and in. "The way of it was that two men faced each other across a corridor, their right elbows resting on the bar, their right hands gripped together, while each strove to press the other's hand down. Man after man came against him, but no man put his hand down, even Olaf Henderson and French Louis falling despite their bugeyes.

"The winner pays!" Daylight cried.
"Surge along you all! This way to the snake room!"

"I'm busted higher'n a kite, and I'm hittin' the trail for Dyon."

"Goin' out?" some one called.

A spasm of anger wrought on his face for a flashing instant, but in the next good humor was back again.

"I know you all are only pekin' fun asking such a question," he said with a smile. "Of course I ain't going out."

"Take the oath again, Daylight," the same voice cried.

"I sure will. I first come over Chitcoat in '83. I went out over the Pass in a fall blizzard, with a rag of a shirt and a cup of raw flour. I got my grub stake in Juneau that winter, and in the spring I went out over the Pass once more. And once more the famine drew me out. Next spring I went in again, and I swore then that I'd never come out till I made my stake Well, I ain't made it, and now I am And I ain't going out, and I got the mail and I come right back. I won't stop the night at Dyon. I'll hit um Chitcoat soon as I change the dogs and get the mail and grub. And so I the Grass Roots Down, a Hundred Dollars to the Pan"

from the grass roots down, a hundred dollars to the pan, and a stamped in from the Outside fifty thousand strong."

"If I was you, Daylight, I wouldn't mush today," Joe Hines counseled, coming in from consulting the spirit thermometer outside the door. "We're in for a good cold snap. It's sixty two below now, and still going down. Better wait till she breaks."

Daylight laughed, and the old sour-doughs around him laughed.

"It's a thousand miles to Dyon," Bettles announced, climbing on the chair and supporting his swaying body by an arm passed around Daylight's neck.

"It's a thousand miles, I'm saying, an most of the train umphken, but I bet any cheeque—anything he wants—that Daylight makes Dyon in thirty days."

"That's an average of over thirty-three miles a day," Doc Watson warned, "and I've traveled some, I tell you. A blizzard on Chitcoat would tie him up for a week."

"Yep," Bettles retorted, "an' Day-light'll do the second thousand back again on end in thirty days more, and I got five thousand dollars that says so, and damn the blizzards!"

To emphasize his remarks, he pulled out a gold piece the size of a potogna sausage and thumped it down on the bar. Doc Watson thumped his own sack alongside.

"Hold on!" Daylight cried. "Bettles' right, and I want in on this. I bet five hundred that sixty days from now I'll pull up at the Tivoli door with the Dyon mail."

A skeptical roar went up, and a dozen men pulled out their sacks.

"Of course he'll make it," Kearns whispered in Bettles' ear. "And there's five hundred Daylight's back in sixty days," he added aloud.

Billy Rawlin's closed with the wager, and Bettles hugged Kearns ecstatically.

"By Jupiter, I can take that bet," Olaf Henderson said, dragging Daylight away from Bettles and Kearns.

"Winner pays!" Daylight shouted, closing the wager. "And I'm sure going to win, and sixty days is a long time between drinks, so I pay now.
Name your brand, you heehooos!
Name your brand!"

Somebody opened the outer door. A vague gray light filtered in.

"Burning Daylight, Burning Daylight," some one called warily,

THE SOISSON.

Manhattan Gaiety Girls

The engagement of the Manhattan Gaiety Girls at the Soisson on Monday Oct. 12 promises to be one of remarkable success judging by the multitude already created around town. The company is a large and capable one and presents the style of performance that will always be popular, abounding in handsome costumes, witty compliments and careful music all rendered in that happy, rapid style prevalent in the better class of burlesque shows.

"Buster Brown"

Philadelphia has the honor of turning out the smallest and most talented actor of his size in the world. Harold West is his name—Master Harold for short. And short he is in a literal sense, being but 20 inches in height. The proprietors of Buster Brown which appears here at the Soisson matinee and night Tuesday, Oct. 17, found him singing in a moving picture show and promptly placed him under contract by arrangement with his guardian.

Alverton Folks
are Seeing Things

Special to The Courier
SCOTTSVILLE, Oct. 12.—Jesse W.
Fox, a well known and prominent citizen of Alverton while in town yesterday told an interesting group of people the experience of the first person to come here to see an "Alverton" going over this locality. Mr. Fox said that about 4 o'clock Tuesday morning Mrs. Fox was awakened by a noise toward the chicken coop and going to the door looked out. The morning was beautiful and clear and happening to look upward she saw a strange sight in the heavens. A brilliant light surrounded by a circle of smaller star-like lights was gliding far up in the sky.

Mrs. Fox watched the rest of the family and Mr. and Mrs. Oley of West Newton, who were visiting there.
Mr. Fox has a powerful field glass and he said that it was soon turned on the moving object which was heading toward and apparently about a mile high. The glass showed a plane with a man sitting in it, and above him a brilliant light with a circle of smaller lights that glowed brightly.

Mr. Fox said that the sight was a beautiful one and that the people watched it for several minutes until the sky traveler passed out of view.

Special to The Courier

Burglars again entered the home of been robbed in as many years and about the same time each year. Judging from the many depredations that

Irwin High Team Hard Proposition

Just how strong the High School elevator of the year city is our liberty be determined Saturday in the game with Irwin High. It will be the first contest against a team of equal strength and weight. If anything Irwin will have the heavier average. Although Connellsville has been able to run up a total of 50 points in two contests, the opposing teams' tucked cohesion on defense and anything like teamwork on the attack.

Irwin comes Saturday with practically the same team that has played here for the past two seasons. The Irwin boys were fortunate in losing but few of their good men by graduation just year while Connellsville had to build practically a new team. Connellsville won 21 to 0 last year and Saturday's score will show just how good the team is.

For the First Time That We Know of Women Have Choice of 54 Tailored Suits Worth $45 Down to $25 for $19.75—Friday and Saturday.

Eastern styles advance westward and "get there" a season late. An up-to-date westerner pursued that line of reasoning and ordered more than half a hundred tailored suits made in advance of the prevailing styles. The garments were exquisitely tailored; skirts that had a shade more goods in them were modestly pleated and those that were made in another style had front and back panels. The coats were just a little longer—but not much more—than the styles that now hold forth.

His first shipment arrived, were shown and—not accepted by the women who set the styles in his community. Tighter skirt and shorter coat models were having their day, just then. Being quick to perceive, as well as up to the moment, willing to take styles as they came instead of trying to advance them, he cancelled the rest of his order at a loss rather than have garments on hand that "hadn't arrived yet."

Up to the present time we've sent several special orders through our New York office for suits that differed, in detail only, from the way these suits were made. Put two and two together and you have the rest of the story. The New York office knew our needs and brought this cancelled order to our buyers attention. He went, saw a bargain and brought it home to you. Value considered, it's the biggest thing we ever did—selling advance style tailored suits worth $45, $40, $37.50, $35, $30, $25 for $19.75. 54 suits for 54 wide-a-wake women—on sale Friday morning—and Saturday, if any are left.

Tailoring

Each one man tailored, hand finished and beautifully worked out—no trimming to cover up a defect here, a miscut there. Suits as carefully, skillfully tailored and cloths and linings of as excellent quality as if you in person selected the stuffs and was measured by a custom tailor.

Today and All Week—Formal Opening of Art Needle Shop Sixth Floor

A display of such infinite daintiness as beggars description! And one rich in suggestions for gifts for the wee little tot or the grandmother of "three score and ten," for brides, debutantes, birthdays and Christmas. Stamped patterns for embroidery; exquisitely embroidered pieces. And—no need to say—fair of the best work accomplished by the women of Conneltsville. Decorative pieces, lingerie and garments for outerwear. This event, coming more than two months before Christmas is for inspiration that will be effective about holiday time. The pieces you purchase range from simple little finished-at-a-sitting size dollies to big, lace bordered centerpieces on which some woman's needle will paint—in dame nature's own colorings—great, pinky-purple orchids with their long "cups" padded to a lifelike hollow.

Note—Now plain or fancy woven stamped huck towels to be worked in the most recent color scheme, pink, or blue or yellow. All the fabrics you've ever heard of are here, sold by the yard, all the best threads and every requirement for needlework is filled in to complete our stock.

The needlework entered in the prize exhibit will be judged Friday afternoon from 2 till 4 o'clock. Needlework is shown in our windows today, and may be seen from the street until Friday.

New Assortment Royal Society Package Goods

57 designs to be worked; each in a separate package containing the stamped fabric, sufficient thread in the proper color, instructions and a diagram. The price range for the packages are 25c for a telephone pad or a baby's cap, to $1.00 for a night gown or a 22x51 inch library scarf. Finished pieces of each design are on display.

In Floor Coverings the Wright-Metzler Store Serves Best.

The fall stocks are very heavy—and the carpet and rug designers have developed their art. On Wednesday several bales of new room-size rugs were opened and put in stock. They came to us underprice and we'll sell them for about what any store must pay for like quality. You will pay about wholesale prices. The reason? The syndicate, of which we are members have been gathering patterns that are dropped from the mill's catalog. No other store in town can buy-in that fashion and—get the price. The syndicate represents 69 other stores. See the advantage?
